

follow the outline printed above there can be little question. Interviews with some of its leading members develop this as the consensus of opinion. Conservatism and a very strong determination to look before it leaps will be among the committee's cardinal points of faith. When the appeal of the city, for better and more advantageous rates and freight facilities such as are afforded other communities, is made, the committee wants to be able to support its arguments with an array of cold facts.

That the city is entitled to a differential against Baltimore, to points in Virginia and West Virginia with which business is done from Washington, appeals to members of the committee as a self-evident fact. Baltimore has differentials against New York and Philadelphia and maintains them by hard fighting. The committee thinks Washington should be equally favored. It is not argued the differential should be large, but that it should be sufficient to emphasize the forty miles distance between the two cities.

A reduction of the abused differential in favor of Alexandria is regarded as an equal necessity. It amounts, roughly, to 6 cents per 100 pounds for hauling goods about seven miles. In many cases this represents a large share of the profit of an order, especially of the heavier staples. The committee does not think it can be defended.

More Prompt Deliveries.

"More prompt deliveries" will be another of the committee's slogans. One shipper has recently adopted a system of return postal cards, sent out with orders, which the consignee is requested to fill in and return. He has collected in this way a considerable amount of information as to the actual time consumed in transit by shipments from Washington to points in Virginia and other States.

The showing is equally remarkable and disagreeable. One shipment to Purcellville, Va., a distance of about fifty miles, spent three days on the road. Another, to Markham, Va., about the same distance from Washington, consumed three days. There are similar instances all through the correspondence the shipper has collected.

"Now wouldn't that tire you?" he asked, plaintively, this morning. "Why, I could walk either to Purcellville or Markham in about one-third of the time it has required for me to make a shipment by rail. Such a condition of affairs is intolerable. With the railroads all accusing each other, it seems to be pretty hard to fix the blame, but there can be no doubt the facts are as stated. Not hurriedly, though, for the committee intends to take its time. Its members believe the railroad officials will be amenable to reasonable suggestion and will not insist upon perpetuating a condition that has become intolerable. The shipping business of Washington has increased materially in the past ten years, but the readjustment of freight rates and the improvement of facilities have not kept pace with the increase. The committee will try to start the improvement.

The next meeting of the directors of the association is to be held Monday. By that time the freight and publicity committees will both have something of interest and importance to report.

Rosslyn Has Meeting To Push New Growth

A meeting of the Alexandria county board of trade will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the office of Frank Lyon, in the Bank building at Rosslyn, to co-operate with the Greater Washington movement. An effort will be made to place the advantages of the Rosslyn neighborhood, as sites for factories, prominently before intending investors in this section.

Mr. Lyon said today the meeting was not met for the purpose of effecting a union of interests, with the object of raising prices. On the contrary, he said, the community desires manufactures and wants to see them established. There was no disposition to raise prices. There is a large amount of land in the neighborhood of Rosslyn entirely suitable for manufacturing sites that Mr. Lyon said can be bought at very reasonable prices, ranging from 2 cents a foot up.

FIREMAN INSANE FROM OLD INJURY

William Baxter Was Struck on Head Year Ago While Fighting Blaze.

William Baxter, a private of Truck G, Fire Department, was today committed to St. Elizabeth's Insane Asylum on the recommendation of Drs. Wall and Barry, of the board of police surgeons, before whom Baxter was examined with a view to determining his sanity.

Baxter is a native of Washington and has been a fireman for twelve years. Since a destructive blaze about one year ago, in which Baxter was struck on the head by flying timbers, he has been failing in health and his mind has weakened gradually under the strain. During the last few days he has been acting strangely.

He went to his sleeping room last night and cried like a child. His pitiful moans were heard half a block away from the truck house, and the other firemen in the building, some of whom were awakened, came to Baxter's room and found him tearing his shirt to pieces. He fared and swore at the men who were his comrades.

DIED OF GRIEF ON ANNIVERSARY

Mourning Widow Follows Husband in Death Same Day and Hour.

"Yesterday was the anniversary of the death of my father, Prof. Charles A. Schott, who died five years ago on the 31st of July, 1901, and mother had been grieving for him all day. We tried to cheer her up, but she felt very bad. Last night about midnight she was seized with an attack of heart failure, the same disease father died of, and passed away."

So said Miss Minna Schott, the sorrowing daughter of Mrs. Charles A. Schott, who died last night on the anniversary of her husband's death. The family are grief-stricken for the mother was in apparent good health and the bereaved ones can attribute her sudden demise to nothing but overpowering memories and heartbroken sorrow for her husband.

By a curious coincidence Mrs. Schott died of the same disease and near the same hour as her husband and on the same day of the month. Their married life had been ideal, and the widow had grieved deeply.

She was of German descent, as was her husband, and was born in Prussia, February 11, 1834. When but ten years old she crossed the ocean alone and came to reside with relatives in America. On September 28, 1853, she married the late Prof. Charles A. Schott. She was a charter member of the Metropolitan Presbyterian Church and an ardent and efficient church worker. Mrs. Schott was greatly beloved by her friends and family and her sudden death is widely mourned. She is survived by her wife, a daughter, Maud; two sons, Cooper and Philip, and a brother, Roger Turner Dawson, of Baltimore, Md.

CAPTAIN DAWSON DIES IN FAIRFAX

Famous Cavalry Fighter Meets End After Long Illness.

Capt. Nicholas Dawson, who has been critically ill for several months at Cameron, his country home in Fairfax county, Va., died this morning at 6:40 o'clock.

The funeral services will be held in the chapel of the Episcopal Theological Seminary, near Alexandria, at 5 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. The interment will be at Ivy Hill Cemetery.

Captain Dawson was born at Spring Dale, Loudoun county, Va., April 29, 1835. He was the son of Samuel Dawson, of Loudoun county, who married Miss Bayne, of Maryland. At the beginning of the civil war he enlisted in the famous Seventh Virginia Cavalry, commanded by Gen. Turner Ashby, and in the fourth year of the war had risen to the rank of captain. He was a fearless soldier and an able cavalry commander.

On October 24, 1873, Captain Dawson married Miss Virginia Cooper, a first cousin of the late Gen. Fitzhugh Lee, of Virginia, and great-granddaughter of John Mason, who owned and maintained a beautiful estate on Annapolis island between Georgetown and Arlington, the home of the Lees.

Captain Dawson had a wide circle of friends throughout Virginia and Maryland. He is survived by his wife, a daughter, Maud; two sons, Cooper and Philip, and a brother, Roger Turner Dawson, of Baltimore, Md.

COMBINATION SALE: Rebuilding Sale Before Stock-Taking Sale New Buyers Sale

THERE ARE THREE DISTINCT CAUSES FOR THIS THURSDAY'S BARGAINING. And each reason is enough in itself to warrant exceptional price-cutting. PARAMOUNTLY, WE ARE REBUILDING. The contractors are at work now, and the dirt and dust is in evidence. We don't mean to have stocks ruined—we're giving you the benefit. SECONDLY, WE BEGIN STOCK-TAKING SOON. That's doubly troublesome at this time. We want to close out all little lots and odds and ends before hand—hence deeper reductions. THIRDLY, in the reorganization of this store we have placed the several departments in the hands of NEW BUYERS. The folks insist upon beginning afresh with goods of their own selection. That's still another reason for bargaining. All in all, you've never before, and seldom will share in such wonderful sacrificing as will start tomorrow.
